

Disclaimer

Last modified: October 11, 2022

The sullivanandhayes.com Website (the "Website") operated by Sullivan Hayes & Quinn, LLC, a(n) LLC formed in Massachusetts (the "firm", "us," "we," "our"), and the information on it are published for informational purposes only. Any information contained on this Website is not legal advice and should not be treated as such. Visitors ("you", "your") to the Website should consult a qualified, licensed attorney, authorized to practice law in your particular jurisdiction for advice regarding your individual situation. All liability with respect to actions taken or not taken based on the contents of this site are hereby expressly disclaimed. The content on this website is posted "as is;" no representations are made that the content is error free or current.

Contacting us does not create an attorney-client relationship. Please do not send any confidential or sensitive information to us until such time as an attorney-client relationship has been established. Operation of the firm's website does not guarantee that the firm or any firm lawyer is willing to consider or discuss entering into an attorney-client relationship with any particular individual. Use of, and access, to this website or any of the links or resources on this website do not create an attorney-client privilege between the reader, user, or browser, and the website authors, the law firm and its owners or individual attorneys.

This Website may be considered attorney advertising under the rules of some states, including the Massachusetts Rules or Professional Conduct. The hiring of an attorney is an important decision that should not be based solely upon advertisements.

We reserve the right to amend this policy at any time without any prior notice to you.